2 Current Catalog Description

This course is an introduction to the principles of information systems analysis and design and their role in business organizations. Topics include information systems strategy and planning, ethical issues in information systems, system modeling, clean-room system engineering, domain ontology, UML, Enterprise Unified Process, e-business, and supply-chain management, deployment and support. Participation in a major design project is a requirement for this course (4.000 Credit Hours, 4.000 Lecture hours).

3 Course Objective

Students will be able to design and analyze organizations' information systems. The course provides a conceptual framework for the development of effective information systems. It introduces the principles of information systems as well as the methodologies and techniques for designing and analyzing information systems.

4 Course Policy

- Lecture notes and announcements will be posted on VLT.
- All students must respect the statement on academic conduct (please, see Section 9).
- Please read you UMD email regularly for announcements.

- You are expected to return your assignments at the due date (beginning of the lecture). Late assignments (project, homework, etc.) will be penalized 10% off for each late day.
- If there are mistakes in grading your homework assignment, project, or exam, please contact me within a week after the return of your work. The entire work will be graded again and the new grade will replace the original one, whether the new grade is higher or lower than the original grade.

5 Main Topics

- Interviewing.
- Prototyping.
- Data Flow Diagrams.
- Data Dictionaries.
- Preparing Process Specifications and Structured Decisions.
- Preparing the Systems Proposal.
- Designing Databases.
- Designing Effective Output and Input.
- Designing User Interfaces.
- Designing Accurate Data Entry Procedures.
- Object-Oriented Systems Analysis and Design Using UML.

6 Grading

- Homework Assignments: 20%
 1. Homework 1: 10%
 2. Homework 2: 10%
- Midterm Exam: 25%
- Projects: 30%
